Hello Everyone, welcome to the first newsletter for 2019

We hope you have all enjoyed the first part of the year, especially the Easter break. Autumn is finally here, on the warmer days, there is still time to wander around the garden and appreciate the beauty of the autumn colours and flowers. With the cold nights we are experiencing now, it's time to finalise your preparations for winter to make sure you stay happy and healthy over the coming months.

Coming events in May, June and July:

We have several exciting events over the next three months, starting with our Psychic/Mediums Festival on Saturday, May 4 at MEAC in Mooroopna. There will be lots of fascinating things to do and see, including a range of mediums there to give private readings (for a fee), as well as healing sessions (gold coin donation), psychic art, sale of crystals, books and other items of interest to those on the spiritual path. The entry fee is $5 (children under 12 are free). There will be a BBQ and tea/coffee and a slice, all at a reasonable cost. Please come and join us and plan to spend a while there between 10am and 4pm.

We have three workshops in June and July; for all of these, bookings are essential: please contact Di or Lesley, details below.

First workshop is the Psychic art workshop with intuitive artist and teacher, Merle Tait on June 22nd, 1pm to 4pm. A time to explore your creativity and get in touch with your intuition in a very powerful way, (even for those who can't draw!). Art materials and afternoon tea provided.

Next is our Sensing the Paranormal workshop in early July, details to be confirmed

Finally, David Donahoo will be here on 27th of July to give another workshop (last year's one on "Connecting with your angels" was really interesting and very informative). He will be the visiting medium at the service the next day (28th of July).

Other special dates later in the year to put into your diaries:

10th August, Hoedown afternoon tea

14th September, workshop, further details in the next newsletter

25th to 27th October, Rhys Wynn Davies, demonstration night, workshop, service medium

10th November, our annual Psychic High Tea, always a very popular event

23rd and 24th November, Leanne Rollinson, trance workshop and service medium

Centre service days to the end of June:

Sunday May 26th, Rev. Troy Clayton and students

Sunday June 30th, Marie Lutzoff

If you would like to join our Sensing Spirit Class or our Healing class, please ring Di or Lesley to have a chat. These classes are held alternately on Monday nights.

Editorial musings:

A friend at the Centre introduced me recently to the Angel Feather Oracle card deck developed by Michelle Newton, a very interesting and inspirational tool for spiritual guidance. I was fascinated by the thought of angels communicating with us on the earthly plane in this way. Within a few days I began to notice the occasional pristine feather that materialised near my path as I wandered through the garden. Of course, you can dismiss these feathers as purely accidental and meaningless objects, no matter how pretty they are, but if you are open to interpreting them as a message from your angel, it can open up a world of excitement and support for you.

The first feather I found was a beautiful bright yellow crest feather from a cockatoo, (the first one I had seen after years of living on a rural block) which Michelle's guide book says means positive thinking. I took this as a sign from my angel to say that I should think positively about the current issue I was dealing with in my life. That feeling that they were there to support me reduced my stress levels in an instant! The next feather I found was a lovely soft brown one, touched with grey. When I looked up the meaning of those colours in the book, neither of the messages 'spoke' to me but when I held the feather gently in my hand and asked my angel 'what does this mean' I got an immediate response – comfort and protection, we are with you. Try this for yourself the next time you find an angel feather in your path and see what answer you get.
